Being a new registrant under FARA unfamiliar with the statement system, I mistakenly listed all activities I had undertaken during the reporting period that might be considered "political" under the Act. Only six of these, however, were on behalf of the State of Qatar, for whose embassy in Washington I am an advisor, and only these six should have been reported. I sought to make this distinction in the report, but unfortunately the online form automatically described all listed activities as undertaken on behalf of Qatar. This was erroneous, inaccurate, and misleading. The State of Qatar, and specifically its embassy and consulates in the United States, has no connection whatsoever with any of the other activities I reported.
